

FAASTeam presents:

NW Mountain Virtual Aviation Safety Week - March 23 2021 - Day 1 - Session 3

The presentation begins with a short discussion about the regional general aviation accident trends and statistics. Then follow along as the presenter uses a recent real life flight across the USA in his Cirrus SR22T to illustrate the process he used to plan for and evaluate weather. Beginning 5 days prior to departure from Spokane, the presenter will take you through all the weather products and services he used concluding with a post flight analysis and evaluation. This is a real life application of the tools available to pilots.
